Explorer looks to lithium

WA-focused junior gold explorer Maximus Resources is investigating the potential of lithium prospects at its Spargoville project.

The stock has seen heavy volume trading since the SA company announced it had acquired full ownership of the project on February 19. It is now nearing completion of a review of the lithium potential contained within its high-grade gold tenements.

The area's gold prospects remains the company's core focus. Its shares closed steady yesterday at 0.3c.
